Wineries & Craft Beverages

The Chautauqua-Lake Erie Region is one of the oldest and most well-established wine making regions in the eastern U.S. The area initially developed as a grape growing region that supported Welch's and other grape product manufacturers. Subsequently, the region blossomed to include more than 20 wineries located in a contiguous portion of New York and Pennsylvania along the Lake Erie shoreline. More recently the region has become home to several craft beverage and brewing operations including the well-known Southern Tier Brewing facility in Lakewood, NY. You can find more information about Southern Tier Brewing on their website at www.stbcbrew.com.
